SEEKING AN ECLECTIC STYLE FOR THIS ARTFUL BATHROOM, DESIGNER JUSTINE HODGSON-BARKER HEADED TO C.P. HART TO FINISH THE LOOK

1 CLASSIC MIX

This is the family bathroom in a prestigious Tunbridge Wells property by famed architect Decimus Burton. The owner is really into art and loves to mix up classic and industrial styles with a bit of retro pop and vintage thrown in. Each room began with her choosing the art, which then directed the colour palette.

2 ROOM TO MOVE

I kept to the original plumbing positions – luckily, the WC is discreetly sited. There has to be a very good reason to move concealed pipework, especially in older homes. The main change, layout-wise, was the shower area, which I made much bigger to achieve a sense of luxury. The Crittall-style frame looks fabulous with fluted glass and far more interesting than a standard screen.

3 VINTAGE TOUCHES

The basin vanity is one of my favourite pieces from C.P. Hart's own collection – especially the elegant cabriole legs. We went for high-gloss plum doors to tie in with the nearby art and create contrast against the matt tiles. The chandelier also has a cool salvaged vibe and is IP44-rated, perfect for bathroom use. Finally, the pretty lace voile by Pearl Lowe – tinged in pink around the edges – softens the large window.
